Ir is to be feared that the interim report which has just been signed by the Royal Commissioners on Vaccination will be hailed by the fanatical apponents of the prosent law as an unmitigated triumph. The Commissioners have been sitting about three years; they have issued several bulky Blue-books of pridence; and their first pronouncement of any opinion on the subject referred to them is to the effect. that it is at any rate undesirable that repeated penalties should be inflicted for continued neglect. They have apparently come to no conclusion whatever as to the. value of the operation in preventing smallpox, although some of the statistics which they have published are such as to convince any unprejudiced person that Dr. Jepner's discovery remains perfectly effectual in giving protection against one of the most terrible diseases to which human flesh is heir. But on this point there is no posed at last meeting by Hon. J. H. the Commissioners dimly intimate that they are divided on the subject.
